Sub Rosa Amber Dawn

Sub Rosa is a 2010 queer novel by Canadian Amber Dawn published by Vancouver-based Arsenal Pulp Press. The novel was Dawn's debut novel, and is a work of speculative fiction that touches on topics of sex, work, imagination, and survival. It narrates the story of "Little," a teenage girl who cannot remember her real name and ends up involved in the dark world of Sub Rosa, "a fantastical underground community of sex workers", where she enters the company of ghosts, magicians, and magical Glories.

Sub Rosa (novel) - Wikipedia

In this stunning, Lambda Literary Award-winning debut novel, Amber Dawn subverts the classic hero's quest adventure to create a dark post-feminist vision. Sub Rosa's reluctant heroine is a teenaged runaway named "Little"; she stumbles upon an underground society of ghosts and magicians, missing girls and would-be johns: a place called Sub Rosa. Not long after she is initiated into this family of magical prostitutes, Little is called upon to lead them through a maze of feral darkness: a ...

In effect, Amber Dawn's Sub Rosa is a happy-go-lucky, tongue-in-cheek paean to the countless girls who become invisible when they fall into the sex trade. But why that tone? My immediate response is to assume that a transgressive conceit has been undone by a conventional execution. I had been expecting the language to be wild and unruly.

As part of a UBC Edit-a-thon focusing on CanLit, our group has chosen to work on a page for Sub Rosa by Amber Dawn. Our goal is to focus on underrepresented groups, and there is no page at all for Sub Rosa. As a book that won the Lambda award we feel it deserves representation as a Canadian LGBTQ* novel.
